The Environmental Council of the States (ECOS) is pleased to share information on our final meeting of 2017 – the September 11-12 Fall Meeting in Jackson, WY. Also on deck are our March 20-22, 2018 Spring Meeting in St. Paul, MN and August 28-29, 2018 Fall Meeting in Stowe, Vermont. More information on these meetings is coming soon!

ECOS is the national nonprofit, nonpartisan association of state and territorial environmental agency leaders. Because ECOS frequently is asked about opportunities to engage, we wanted to make you aware of sponsorship benefits for these well-attended gatherings.

The Fall Meeting theme is Bright Ideas: States Leading the Way. The interactive program will tie together a number of cutting-edge ECOS initiatives of interest to a variety of stakeholders. Among other highlights, ECOS will explore ways to enhance compliance efforts among states, federal agencies, and industry and will convene a Corporate Roundtable bringing together leaders from the manufacturing, technology, and energy sectors to share how private environmental governance is protecting the environment while supporting the bottom line. Also sure to be a highlight of the gathering is an evening networking event in Grand Teton National Park.

ECOS' meetings generally attract approximately 250 leaders from state environmental agencies; U.S. EPA, U.S. DOE, U.S. DOD, and other federal agencies; industry; and NGOs. Attached is a listing of available sponsorship opportunities. To discuss Fall Meeting sponsorship, please contact Lia Parisien at 202-266-4931 or lparisien@ecos.org. I extend my sincere appreciation to you for considering support of ECOS' 2017 conferences.

Regards,

John Linc Stine
Commissioner, Minnesota Pollution Control Agency
ECOS President
